Market Analysis and Strategy

- Marketing Analysis & Strategic Planning
  - Essential Elements (5Cs, STP, 4Ps)
  - Situation Analysis / Strategy / Marketing Mix

 Involves the allocation of resources to develop and sell products or services that consumers will perceive to provide more value than competitive goods

What is perceived value?

- A thorough understanding of:
  - Domestic and global market trends
  - Models to predict purchase and consumption
  - Communication methods to reach target markets most effectively

- The process of analyzing:
  - Consumer characteristics & trends
  - Resources of the Company
  - Current and potential Competitors
  - Current and potential Collaborators
  - The Context or environmental factors

- SWOT:
  - Core strengths?
  - Current weaknesses?
  - What opportunities exist?
  - What threats do we face?

- Internal Factors
  - Strengths: Competitive Advantages;
     Resources
  - Weakness: Competitive Disadvantages;
- External Factors
  - Opportunities: Social and economic conditions and situations that look positive
  - Threats: Marketplace conditions that reduce the perceived value of an offering

Outside-in perspective

- One should consider the customer viewpoint rather than relying on internal judgments
- Conduct a brand audit comparing manager's perceptions to employee and customer perceptions

Useful Criteria:

- Realistic damage to brand relationships if a weakness or threat is not addressed
- Realistic benefit if a strength or opportunity is leveraged
- Cost of addressing or leveraging each SWOT
- Time company has to address or leverage each SWOT

Rank each SWOT item from 1 to 3 according to its importance to the company's objectives (3 = most important)

	Damage If not addressed	Benefit If leveraged	Cost of Addressing/ Leveraging	Window of Time	Total
Strengths:  • Good dealer relationships	_	2	3	1	6
Identifiable target	-	3	3	3	9
Weaknesses:  • Lack of brand awareness  • Small budget	-3 -3	- -	-2 -2	-3 -3	-8 -8
Opportunities:  • Good economy	-	2	1	2	5
<ul><li>Threats:</li><li>Established competition</li><li>New brands coming</li></ul>	-3 -2	- -	-3 -2	-1 -1	-7 -5

Step 1: Market Segmentation

- Process of identifying a group of people similar in one or more ways, based on a variety of characteristics and behaviors.
- Goal: minimize variance within groups and maximize variance between groups

"Heavy versus Light" Users – "80/20 rule"

'Heavy users' are likely to be disproportionately important to the brand (typically, 20 percent of users accounting for 80 percent of usage — and of suppliers' profit).

As a result, suppliers often segment their customers into 'heavy', 'medium' and 'light' users; as far as they can, they target 'heavy users'.

Demographics: Age, Gender, Income, etc...

- Geodemographics
  - -- Examine regional differences in demographics
  - Useful for store location decisions, and direct mailings, and grassroots efforts
    - Why?

Lifestyle & Values

Psychographics/ Benefits Psychographics

- Lifestyle segmentation
- VALS is based on primary motivation and resources

Step 2: Target Market Selection

- Select segments of the market to offer products and services
- Who can we most efficiently and effectively establish a relationship with better than our competitors?

 Once a basis for segmentation has been determined and attractive segments have been selected, the target groups should be profiled by describing them on as many levels as possible.

- Age, Education, Income
- Occupation, Hobbies
- Media Habits
- Groups
- VAL Segment
- Musical Taste, Preferred Cars
- Aspirational Role Models

Step 3: Positioning

- How your product/company is perceived in the hearts and minds of your customers?
  - Price leader/Innovator/Fashion leader/ Quality/Service
  - What associations come to mind?

A firm needs to:

- Start by analyzing the market
  - 5 C's (Company, Competitors, Collaborators, Customers, and Context)
- Develop a strategic plan
  - Begin with Segmentation, Targeting, and Positioning
  - Followed by tactical decisions
    - Product (Brand), Price, Promotion, and Place
- With a plan in place implementation issues need to be addressed

PEST Analysis

What is PEST Analysis?

- It is very important that an organization considers its environment before beginning the marketing process. In fact, environmental analysis should be continuous and feed all aspects of planning. The organization's marketing environment is made up from:
  - » 1. The internal environment
  - » 2. The micro-environment
  - » 3. The macro-environment e.g. Political (and legal) forces, Economic forces, Sociocultural forces, and Technological forces. These are known as PEST factors.
